COMPETITION IN DESIGNS

For the New German Embassy in Washington Is Offered.

Berlin, Germany, June 14.—Designs for the new German embassy to be built at Washington have been solicited from architects of German nationality, and four prizes amounting to $6,250 are offered. The prize jury consists of six prominent architects; the minister of foreign affairs, Herr von Jagow, and the German ambassador at Washington, Count Bernstorff.

This open competition for the Washington embassy is a direct result of the criticism of the new building for the German embassy at St. Petersburg, the construction of which was entrusted without competition to Prof. Peter Behrens, one of Germany's most prominent architects. His efforts to achieve a structure of massive and monumental simplicity, as demanded by Emperor William, were not altogether happy, though with a freer hand he doubtless would have been more successful. St. Petersburg speaks of the German building as a cross between a cold storage warehouse and a prison, entirely out of harmony with the other buildings facing St. Isaac's square, around which are the best edifices of the Russian capital.

EVERY LOT SOLD.

Gigantic Real Estate Auction Just Concluded in New York.

New York, June 14.—Historic Morris park race track in the Bronx was last night finally dispersed after a 12-day public auction of the 3,019 building lots which it contained. The last plot sold was approximately that embracing the track's finish line. The sum realized was approximately $4,000,000. This is said to be the high record sale of lots in a like period of days. Fifteen miles of city streets eventually will traverse the property.

The auction was authorized by the state banking department in liquidating the assets of the failed Carnegie Trust company and the Northern bank and following a spectacular advertising campaign.

SAID POLICE FIRED SHOT

Which Caused Death of Woman at Ipswich, Mass.

Ipswich, Mass., June 14.—The defense sprang a sensation yesterday in the cases of the 19 persons charged with rioting in connection with the trouble at the Ipswich hosiery mills last Tuesday evening when it produced a witness who testified that Miss Nicoletta Pouloupolou, killed during the disturbance, was shot by a policeman. This witness was John Baker, who described himself as a man without a home, who came from Rochester, N. H., a week ago, to work in the Ipswich mills.

The state classed its presentation of evidence yesterday as the defense. After Baker had testified that he gave up his job in the mills, he said that last Tuesday evening, on coming out of the mill gates, he started towards the railroad station.

"I got half way up the street," he said, "when I saw an officer grabbing two women. A little further I saw a man from the mill wearing, I believe, a police officer's badge, with a revolver in his hands. Soon after I saw a policeman pull his gun and I think both began to shoot."

"I saw an officer dodging bricks and a moment later he fired four or five shots into the air. I started to walk up the street again when I saw some men behind a house and a tall woman with a bloody hole in her cheek. She was fighting with Chief of Police Hull. While they were battling, another woman rushed over. The officer saw her, aimed at her, fired and the woman fell."

It was the impression of the witness, according to his testimony, that the woman who was shot had intended to rescue the woman who was grappling with the officer.

After Baker's testimony, L. K. Cristkas of Boston, who is temporarily in charge of the strikers, said last night that the defense would petition District Attorney Harry C. Atwell of Lynn to have the body of the victim, who was buried Wednesday, exhumed.

He said he wanted experts of the defense to have an opportunity to examine the body with particular regard to the course of the bullet in an effort to refute the theory of the prosecution that the woman was killed by a shot from above.

SUFFRAGETS DECIDED

TO IGNORE POLICE

When Advised To Take the Quiter Side Streets for Funeral Procession of Miss Davison in London

London, June 14.—Suffragettes, militant and non-militant, had made elaborate preparations for the funeral to-day of Miss Emily Wilding Davison, who died of injuries received in interfering with King George's horse during the running of the Derby on June 4. A special train brought the body from Epsom to the Victoria station, where a procession of nearly 6,000 women was organized to escort it across the city through the principal streets to St. George's church, Bloomsbury, where the service was held.

Most of the women were dressed in white with purple sashes and black bands on their arms, carrying a bouquet and wreaths of white flowers.

Twenty bands furnished music for the procession.

When the officials of Scotland Yard learned of the plans of the women to march through the main streets they suggested that the parade take the quieter streets, but the women became highly indignant and announced that they would pay no attention to the police.

New York, June 14.—Bridgie Webber, one of the four gamblers who testified against Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, another gambler, was stabbed in the shoulder shortly after midnight this morning under circumstances which he seemed loathe to explain. Webber was in St. Vincent's hospital to-day, suffering some pain and weak from loss of blood, but is expected to recover.

The stabbing occurred in East 8th street and Webber at first sought to conceal his identity and walk away on the arm of a friend, but sank exhausted and admitted to a policeman that he had been stabbed. He said a small boy ran up behind him and plunged a penknife into his shoulder. Later he declared he did not know who stabbed him and did not want to know. The police, however, are making a rigid investigation.

Large Sawmill Property Near East Wallingford Was Destroyed, With Loss Estimated at $7,000.

Rutland, June 14.—The large sawmill property known as Green's mills, located at Greendale near East Wallingford, was wiped up by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated at $7,000, only a few hundred dollars of which is covered by insurance. The property was owned by Frank E. Green of East Wallingford and Massachusetts. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was discovered on the main floor during the noon hour and the one stream of water available had no effect and the flames soon spread to the dry house nearby containing $800 worth of chair stock. New machinery had recently been installed throughout the mill and this is rendered worthless. This was the only industry in the hamlet and it is not believed that the mill will be rebuilt.

The child and her mother were alone in the house, other children being at school. Mary secured the matches under the table. The little girl's clothing was ablaze and several matches were burning on the floor beside her when her mother discovered her plight. Mrs. Zulka's hands were both badly burned in her attempt to pull the burning clothes from the child. The child lived several hours after the accident.

FIRED SHOTS TO HALT FUGITIVE.

Wild Chase Through Winslow's Mill District.

Winslow, June 14.—Joseph Monette was arrested yesterday after a wild chase through the mill yards and into the street by Special Officer Lester Cruise of the American Woolen Co. Cruise finally captured Monette in the rear of the "White block." Monette will probably be given a hearing in municipal court to-day on the charge of breach of the peace. He is employed in the weaving room of the mill and yesterday had an altercation with Overseer James Greaney, who called Officer Cruise. The latter, thinking that the fight was all out of Monette, held him lightly by the shoulder while talking with one of the office force when the prisoner made a clear getaway. Cruise fired his revolver in the air twice and Monette halted. He was taken to the jail in Burlington.

Weather Forecast.
Sunday fair; moderate south and southwest winds.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS ON STAGE.

Presented a Farce-Comedy Written by One of Their Number.

An entertainment of an unusual character took place in the chapel of the Spaulding high school last evening, when the members of the Wah-Wah-Tay-See patrol of the Fahoeba campfire girls of the Congregational church presented a three-act comedy-farce. A great deal of the interest centered around the writer of the play, who was also one of the leading characters in the cast. The name of the play, "The Gormandizerette," is supposed to represent a girl who is very fond of eating and who has grown to very great proportions. Most of the excitement centered around her. A good many took the opportunity of hearing a locally written farce presented, and the chapel was pretty well filled with anxious listeners. Between the acts delicious home-made candy was on sale in the hall. A trio composed of the Misses Murdena and Joana Smith and Emma Slayton rendered selections between the acts. These were enjoyed very much.

The writer of the play is Mavis Barnett, daughter of Rev. J. W. Barnett, pastor of the Congregational church. She wrote the play merely as a pastime, but on the advice of her friends she decided to stage it, and this she did remarkably well. To Miss Barnett falls much of the credit of the success of the entertainment. The play is very interesting and full of comedy from beginning to end.

Miss Nellie Perrin, guardian of the camp, had charge of the performers, and to her goes no little credit for the manner in which she trained the characters.

The cast of characters as they appeared was as follows: Mavis Barnett, the Gormandizerette; Olive Burgess; Eva Burke, her room-mate; Nora Morris; Anne Asheleigh, a girl with a hobby; Marguerite Currier; Ruth Payne, just a dear, Elizabeth Hoar; Elynore van Schuyler, something of a snob; Gladys Perkins; Betty Hasbird; another Clinton girl, Margaret Booth; Miss Glover, the provincial old maid teacher; Mavis Barnett, the parlor maid, was to have been taken by Lizette Smollett, but on account of death in the family this was left out. The scenes of the three acts were: Act 1, Ruth Payne's room at Clinton college; act 2, same scene, one hour later; act 3, same scene, a week later.

BOY SLIPPED INTO THE RIVER.

And Struck Head Against a Rock But Was Rescued Soon.

Little Joe Rogers, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rogers of 71 Boynton street, escaped death by a slender margin late yesterday afternoon when he slipped into the waters of Jail branch just as he was crossing the stream on stepping stones. In falling, Rogers' head struck his head on a stone and he was rendered temporarily unconscious. His head sank below the surface of the water and had it not been for the proximity of a crowd of swimmers, the boy would have in all probability drowned. The swimmers were disputing themselves a few rods up the stream when one of the number happened to see young Rogers fall. As the lad did not respond, the rest of the party ran with one accord to his assistance.

Before the bank was reached it was seen that young Rogers had been quite badly injured. Blood was streaming from his head and after partially regaining consciousness, he complained of pains about his left side. While one of his rescuers ran to summon a physician, the others started to carry the injured lad to his home on Boynton street. Near the B street intersection of Batchelder street, the rescuing party met A. M. Morrison, who loaded the helpless youth into his wagon, turned his steed about, and carried him the remainder of the distance home.

Dr. J. H. Woodruff, who arrived shortly, dressed the wound on the head and stated that the boy was injured in the high. Rogers was resting comfortably at the last report and his early recovery is anticipated. Had the accident occurred beyond hearing distance or a short distance down the stream, Rogers would have drowned before anyone discovered his predicament, it is likely. The water is some seven feet deep near the scene of the accident, although the boy fortunately fell in the shallower rapids.

DEATH OF BARRE MAN.

HELD AT BETHELWaterbury High School
Sends Out Class of 1913
—Spaulding's Program

Bethel, June 14.—The Whitecomb high school graduating exercises last evening were, as usual, of high excellence. The music by Gilson's orchestra was bright and inspiring, while the songs of the high school double quartet appealed to all and were a very popular feature. The salutatory address was an oration on "Possibilities of Electricity," a subject evidently very near to the speaker's heart.

John J. Wilson, for the prudential committee presented the diplomas in a good address in which he urged self-respect as more valuable than wealth, friendship or popularity. He also introduced the speaker of the evening, Prof. S. F. Emerson of the University of Vermont, his own teacher in history years ago, who spoke on "The Goal of Education in Vermont."

The class motto, "With the Whole Heart," appeared in Latin in the center of the pretty decorative scheme.
